Biographical Sketch

William Hafford Berry was born in Magazine, Arkansas July 27, 1894. He died in Memphis, Tennessee July 30, 1994 at the age of 100 years and three days. At the time of his death, he was the oldest living emeritus missionary of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board (now International Mission Board.) Berry graduated from Ouachita Baptist College (now university) in 1920 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Later he studied at the University of Chicago and the University of Missouri College of Journalism, where he received the B. J. degree in 1945. Berry married Olga Anne Oliver September 2, 1921, and they had four children: Edward Grady, Thomas Oliver, Bailey Hafford, and Betty Anne. Edward Berry became a career missionary and worked along side his father for several years in Brazil.

Before volunteering for full-time foreign mission service, Berry was a teacher and pastor. His wife, Olga, was one of his students and also a member of his congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Berry were appointed by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1922 and sailed for Brazil in early 1923. Their first child, Edward, was born March 25, 1923, three weeks after their arrival in Brazil.

“Since Berry’s missionary appointment in 1922, the Berry family has had a family member serving in Brazil for more than 70 years. Edward Berry and his wife, Lois, were appointed in 1953 and retired in 1985. Their daughter, Laura Spiegel, and her husband, David, have been missionaries there since 1979. David Spiegel's parents – Betty and Don Spiegel of Benton, Arkansas – are retired Southern Baptist missionaries to Brazil. Bailey Berry's first wife, the late Doreen Margrett Berry, was a great-great granddaughter of William Buck Bagby, the first Southern Baptist missionary to Brazil.”

Scope and Content Notes

The William H. Berry Collection contains the account of a Southern Baptist career missionary and his family in Brazil over a 41 year period, 1922 – 1963. The collection contains an eight volume, 1,522 page autobiography of Berry, which includes personal and official correspondence, articles, newspaper clippings, observations, and photographs.

The narrative begins with the arrival from the United States, in the immediate post-pioneer South American missionary era, of a young missionary couple. It chronicles their experiences during the lean years of the Great Depression, World War II, the Cold War Era, and the Korean War. Much of the collection centers on the busy and complicated lives and schedules of career missionaries whose lives fall into three distinct divisions: educational work, special evangelism, and public relations.

A significant part of the collection documents a long-standing difference of missionary philosophy between the missionary-author and the leadership of the Foreign Mission Board (now International Mission Board). Letters beginning in 1930 document an ongoing disagreement between Dr. Charles E. Maddry and Berry involving missionary policy, personal conduct in Berry's owning a farm, and attempting to return diamonds to the United States. The disagreement/misunderstanding reaches fever pitch in 1937, immediately after Berry's return to the U. S. on furlough, and seriously clouds the possibility of his returning to service in Brazil. In the 1950's and until his retirement in 1963, Berry (and other missionaries in Brazil) was at odds with Dr. Baker James Cauthen, chief executive of the Foreign Mission Board, regarding the development of a sub-division to include a Baptist university in the new capital city of Brasilia.

The collection contains a summary history of the Youth for Christ movement recorded in an inauspicious way. October 27, 1954, Dr. Berry, who at the time was with Atlas News Service, and other Southern Baptist Missionaries interviewed Dr. Robert A. Cook, co-founder of Youth for Christ, in preparation for his conducting a crusade in Brazil. The normal questions gave opportunity for Cook to respond with what amounts to a summary oral history on the founding and purposes of the movement.

The collection contains correspondence from Drs. T. B. Ray, Charles E. Maddry, M. Theron Rankin, and Baker James Cauthen - all of whom were chief executives of the Foreign Mission Board - and Rev. R. S. Jones, Drs. Everett Gill, Jr., and Frank K. Means, field secretary/area secretaries for Latin America. Correspondence of J. Howard Jenkins, president of the Foreign Mission Board, and Jessie R. Ford, administrative assistant, is also included.

The following missionaries are mentioned in the collection: James Ross Allen, William Edison Allen, Mrs. Rosalie Appleby, Albert Ian Bagby, Taylor Crawford Bagby, William Buck Bagby, Lester G. Bell, Edward Grady Berry, Lois Roberts Berry, Lewis Malen Bratcher, Miss Nadyne Brewer, Glenn McCleary Bridges, Thurmon E. Manoel Avelino de Sousa, Dr. J. Walfredo Thome, Pastor Eneas Tognini, Rev. Eber Valconellos, and Rev. Jose Watson.

Included in the collection is correspondence or discussion about the following organizations or institutions: American Bible Society, Atlas News Service, Baptist Loan Board of Southern Brazil (Junta Patrimonial), Baptist Press of Brazil, Baptist Radio Commission, Baptist University of Brazil (Nova Providencia – New Providence), English Bible Society, and the Sociedade Administradora Batista de Economics SOABRE (Brazilian Baptist Foundation).

W. Maxey Jarman, successful businessman from Nashville, Tennessee and layman of First Baptist Church, is mentioned prominently as the donor of the Memorial Baptist Church in the new capital city of Brasilia, which was dedicated December 15, 1962.

The collection is primarily in English, but about 20 per cent of the material is in Portuguese. The collection is well organized and thoroughly indexed by the author/owner, the Rev. Dr. Berry. The first part of the collection is its original format in eight scrapbooks. The remaining ten scrapbooks were disassembled and their contents put in folders which are arranged in the order of the books from which they were taken. The collection contains three linear feet of materials, and additions are not anticipated.
