Historical Sketch

Throughout its history, the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board has used publications to promote its mission activities. The Home Mission Board, established as the Domestic Mission Board in 1845, used publications and promotion material to inform Southern Baptists of its activities and to raise funds for operations. Widely distributed among churches and state conventions, the materials, such as pamphlets, maps, posters, guidebooks, and study books, provided their audience with information about the work currently undertaken by the Board. Thematic publications explained seasonal or annual thrusts like the materials produced to coincide with the Bicentennial celebrations of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Other publications focused on general information about either a specific department or mission emphasis such as the Special Missions Ministries Department or mountain mission schools. Though departments and missions emphases evolved, publications have remained an integral part of communications about the Board's work. For example, city missions at the beginning of the twentieth century focused on recent immigration. This developed by the 1960s and 1970s into ethnic and language missions that included work with Spanish speaking communities in the Southwest and deaf peoples throughout the country.

The Home Mission Board Publications/Promotion material is a series within the records of the Home Mission Board/North American Mission Board records. The material in this series is artificially compiled together as a collection.

Scope and Content Note

The Home Mission Board Publications/Promotions Collection (1866 – 2000) contains 40 linear feet of material in 27 record center boxes. Material in the collection include annual reports, catalogs, directories, filmstrip scripts, guide books, handbooks, maps, mission study books, newsletters, pamphlets, photographs, posters, programs, product guides, research reports, resume guides, and workbooks.

The collection is arranged into four series, according to the sectional divisions in the Home Mission Board's organizational structure during the twentieth century, when most of the collection's publications were produced. The series are: evangelism section, missions section, planning section, and services section. Within each section, the department or division responsible for the materials is documented.

Publication materials are recorded in a Microsoft Access database by box number, folder number, title, author, date of publication, series, and publishing department, which is formatted alphabetically by title. Researchers should note that many materials are general in nature and have no known author or publication date.

Subjects covered include: 75 million campaign, African-American missions, Annie Armstrong Easter offering, Baptist associations, Baptist-Catholic dialogue, Baptist Jubilee Advance, belief bulletins, Bible study, Bold Mission Thrust, Christian Service Corps, church evangelism, church missions, church planting, continuing witness training, Cuba missions, deaf missions, disaster relief, ethnic missions, evangelism, filmstrip scripts, Here's Hope: God Loves You campaign, Home Mission Board mission study, Hope for Hurting Humanity pamphlet series, language missions, migrant missions, Mission '70, Mission Service Corps, mountain missions, Native-American missions, Panama missions, race relations, rural church, Sellers Baptist Home and Adoption Center, Soul-Winning publication series, student summer missions, and Week of Prayer for Home Missions.
