Historical Sketch

The Audiovisuals Department of the Home Mission Board began in 1959 as the Promotion Department under the Division of Education and Promotion, later the Communication Division. The department made various productions, such as motion pictures and filmstrips, and recorded events such as conferences. Filmstrips for distribution included a script along with the filmstrip. The filmstrips helped the board fulfill its objective “to provide plans, materials, and information to churches, associations, state conventions, and other Southern Baptist Convention agencies in the support of, and involvement in, missions in the homeland.”

J. C. Durham, Jr. was the director of the Audiovisuals Department, later the Media Department, from 1959 – 1990. He was born November 8, 1925 in Fort Payne, Alabama, and graduated from Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana and the University of Georgia in Athens, Georgia. Mr. Durham worked for several local television stations in Alabama, Nebraska, and Georgia before joining the staff of the Home Mission Board in 1959.

Many recordings in this collection document the work and ministry of the Home Mission Board, including chapel services, commissioning services, events sponsored by the Board, trustee meetings, and conferences.

Scope and Content Note

The Home Mission Board Audiovisuals Collection contains 103 boxes and 50 linear feet of material. This material includes audio cassettes, reel to reel disks, videotapes, motion pictures, filmstrips, and kits that combine filmstrips with audio cassettes and a printed script. Researchers should note that the collection's contents are in a Microsoft Access database, which is formatted alphabetically by description or title. Other information for each entry includes location, date, format, and, sometimes, additional notes when necessary.

The material in the collection falls into two main categories: recordings and productions. Recordings are of live events put on by the Home Mission Board, such as annual meetings and conferences. For example, the Board sponsored a Home Mission Week conference annually at both the Ridgecrest and Glorieta Baptist Retreat Centers in Ridgecrest, North Carolina and Glorieta, New Mexico, respectively. The collection has audio cassettes from many of these conferences and others held at Ridgecrest and Glorieta. There are also recordings from chapel put on by the Board for its employees, commissioning services, and staff retreats. Productions were mainly videotapes, filmstrips, and motion pictures about various mission emphases. Topics covered in the production recordings include Bold Mission Thrust, city missions, refugee missions, language missions, interfaith missions, literacy missions, missions planning, ethnic missions, work with National Baptists, and youth missions.

The symbols attached to box numbers are identified below:

AC – audio cassette
AD – audio disk record
AR – audio reel-to-reel
Kits – multi-part products
FS – filmstrip
MP – motion picture film
VT – video tape
