Baptist Hour Sermon Collection

AR 695

Summary

Main Entry: Baptist Hour Sermon Collection

Date Span: 1941-1997

Abstract: Printed, booklets and typescript radio sermons from "The Baptist Hour," a weekly production of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission. The collection dates from 1941 to 1997. With the dissolution of the Radio and Television Commission in 1997, the radio and television programming was assigned to the North American Mission Board. The North American Mission Board discontinued all of these programs. Included are sermons by notable pastors, teachers, missionaries, and Southern Baptist denominational leaders.

Size: 12 linear ft. (28 boxes)

Collection #: AR 695

Historical Sketch

"Baptist Hour" began in 1938 when Samuel Franklin Lowe urged the Southern Baptist Convention, meeting in Richmond, Virginia, to explore the possibilities of religious broadcasting. At that meeting, Lowe was appointed chairman of a seven-member committee charged with making the survey. In 1939, at Oklahoma City, the survey group recommended to the Convention that a committee be continued to make a study of the best methods of religious broadcasting and that the committee be empowered to raise money through private donations to promote Baptist broadcasts. With an operating fund of $12,000 from the Sunday School Board, the committee set in motion plans for a "Baptist Hour" program. The plans were approved at the 1940 convention in Baltimore.

The first 13-week "Baptist Hour" series began in January, 1941. Monroe Elmon Dodd delivered the first message on the half-hour evangelistic program. The series was carried by 17 stations in 11 states. Lowe was made director of the Radio Committee at the 1942 SBC Convention in San Antonio. The "Baptist Hour" came of age at the 1946 convention in Miami, Florida. The name "Radio Committee" was replaced by the name "Radio Commission," and the commission was recognized as an agency of the Convention, receiving a direct and proportionate share of Cooperative Program receipts. October 2, 1949, the full-time "Baptist Hour" aired over 120 stations of the American Broadcasting Company. However, the network schedule was terminated in June, 1950 for lack of funds.

The programs were offered transcribed to independent radio stations, and 180 stations scheduled the broadcasts. Time was purchased on 50 other stations. Associate director Dupree Jordan was made acting director following the death of S. F. Lowe, October 4, 1952. The commission elected Paul M. Stevens director in August, 1953, and he served until his retirement in 1979. In 1958, Herschel H. Hobbs, pastor of First Baptist Church Oklahoma City, became the regular preacher for the program. When he retired in 1976, he was succeeded by Frank Pollard, pastor of First Baptist Church in San Antonio, Texas. By 1980, "Baptist Hour" was broadcast from more than 400 radio stations. "Baptist Hour" celebrated its 50th anniversary in January, 1991. In the mid-1990s, the "Baptist Hour" moved to television, as the RTVC expanded its media reach. Frank Pollard became the primary speaker for the television version of the "Baptist Hour". In 1995 the Southern Baptist Convention adopted the Covenant for a New Century proposal which called for the dissolution of the Radio and Television Commission. All of the radio and television programs were transferred and assigned to the North American Mission Board which essentially killed the Baptist Hour and all of the radio programming. For further information, see Encyclopedia of Southern Baptists.

Scope and Content

The collection contains printed, photocopied, booklet, and typescript copies of radio and television sermons from the "Baptist Hour," a weekly production of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission. Speakers include Herschel H. Hobbs, Frank Pollard, George W. Truett, R. G. Lee, W. A. Criswell, Wayne Dehoney, Charles G. Fuller, Ellis A. Fuller, Ed Young, Pat Neff, E. D. Head, Ralph Herring, Louie D. Newton, Roy O. McClain, C. C. Warren, Duke McCall, William E. Hull, Ramsey Pollard, J. H. Rushbrooke, Theodore F. Adams, Charles Wellborn, J. D. Grey, Kenneth Chaffin, Joel D. Gregory, and others. The collection began with the first broadcast in January, 1941. Also included in the collection are "Fan Mail Speaks" (1942), the 1945 SBC "Centennial Broadcast," a bound volume for 1958 – 1963, bound pamphlets of sermons by Herschel Hobbs, and "Classic Issues," reprints of popular sermons. The sermons cover a wide range of topics by a variety of speakers. The file listing includes the date of the sermon broadcast, the preacher, the title of the sermon and, when available, the scriptural text of the sermon.

The "Baptist Hour" collection was compiled from a wide variety of miscellaneous archival sources, including the records of the Radio and Television Commission. The collection is arranged chronologically and contains 28 boxes and about 12 linear feet of materials. Additional transcripts of "Baptist Hour" broadcasts may be found in the Radio and Television publications, The Beam and Beam International. For further information on the "Baptist Hour" and/or the Radio and Television Commission, see Baptist Hour Speakers, 1941 – 1950; Photo Album (AR. 293); Herschel Hobbs papers (AR. 88); Radio and Television Commission miscellaneous materials (AR. 479); SBC Executive Committee Program Planning Process Papers (AR. 154); and Radio and Television Collection (AR. 561 and AR 714). The "Baptist Hour" sermons from 1941 to early 1958 which were originally recorded on 16-inch transcription discs have been digitized and are located in the Archives.
